PATRIOTIC PLUMVILLE.

How the Unterrified Delivered Themselves at a Gathering of the Followers of Grover.

PLUMVILLE, October 27th, 1892.

Mr. Editor: As the day of election is fast approaching, and with it comes the new and improved method of voting, it is not only necessary that we should be thoroughly informed upon the issues of the day, but we should also be informed upon the way and manner of casting our votes.

The unterrified of Plumville, realizing that this was a very important matter to them, met at their club room on Tuesday evening last to listen to the two able exponents of Democracy, Mr. Kehoe of Maysville and Esquire Earnshaw of Dover.

The speakers were a little late in arriving, owing to the fact, no doubt, that the distinguished Squire was fully three-thirds full, and to further add to their discomfort it was announced that over at the church hard by were three Republican Preachers who would preach turn about all night rather than their audience should attend the speaking.

The unterrified of Plumville, realizing that this was a very important matter to them, met at their club room on Tuesday evening last to listen to the two able exponents of Democracy, Mr. Kehoe of Maysville and Esquire Earnshaw of Dover. The speakers were a little late in arriving, owing to the fact, no doubt, that the distinguished Squire was fully three-thirds full, and to further add to their discomfort it was announced that over at the church hard by were three Republican Preachers who would preach turn about all night rather than their audience should attend the speaking.

Mr. Kehoe took the floor and addressed his expectant hearers. Said he: "Fellow-citizens, you have before you to-night a fair representation of the Democratic party; you have the youth and the aged, I, said he, 'represent the youth and my old friend here,' referring to the Squire, 'represents the aged.' Whereupon some naughty fellow at the back part of the house called out that he thought the old Squire represented a bar-room, which produced a roar of laughter. The speaker then proceeded to arraign the Republicans for all the wrong-doing in government from the inauguration of Lincoln to the present time, but among all the iniquitous wrongs they had committed none of them equalled in pure selfishness this abominable force bill that would become a law if Mr. Harrison was elected President and A. M. J. Cochran Circuit Judge.

As the speaker continued to delineate the horrors of the force bill, ever and anon there would escape from the lips of the old Squire an agonizing groan which was sure to bring a round of applause from the boys and a lusty cheer for Cochran.

But when Mr. Kehoe straightened himself to his height and said that this bill was an archism in its worst form, and that the provisions of the bill placed at the disposal of the Republican party all the money in the United States Treasury, the Army and Navy of the United States, and said he, 'if this is not sufficient for them to carry an election, they can bring to their aid the combined armies of the European world and carry the election at Plumville in spite of John Mason and Uncle Steve Valentine.'

Here the speaker paused to note the effect upon his hearers, and in the stillness that followed there arose from the corner where the old Squire sat a groan so unutterably full of anguish that as it floated out upon the stillness of the night was sufficient within itself to chill the blood of a ghost.

At this stage of the meeting the old Squire thought it was about time that he should be heard from, and he frequently put in to the great annoyance of Mr. Kehoe and the evident amusement of the boys. It was plain to be seen that the distinguished Squire was pregnant with speech, and if something could not be done that he might procure the floor and be happily delivered, it was evident that he would miscarry.

However, the Republicans came to his rescue, and loud calls for 'Earnshaw' and 'Kershaw' came from all parts of the house, and

KENTUCKY WEATHER REPORT.

What We May Expect Between This Time and To-Morrow Evening.

THE LEDGER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.

White streamer—Fair; Blue—Rain or Snow; With Black above—'Twill warmer grow. If Black's beneath—'Twill be colder 'twill be. Unless Black's shown—no change we'll see.

The above forecasts are made for a period of thirty-six hours, ending at 5 o'clock to-morrow evening.

amid a storm of applause that would have caused a thrill of pride to have circulated through the anatomy of a Watterson or a Dewey, the Squire came to the front, knocked the ashes from his pipe and began: "Fellow-citizens, I am here to-night to discuss the issues of the day, but I am here to talk to you as Democrats. I am a Democrat," said the Squire and paused, when some fellow near the door responded, "We all know that by the smell of your breath." After the laughter which followed had ceased, he began once more: "The question to-night, fellow-citizens, is, are you Democrats? Now," said the Squire, "I am going to test you by my Democratic rule, and I repeat it, are you Democrats?"

Just then our irresponsible John, who always has an eye for a good thing, replied, "Just pull out your bottle, old man, and you'll soon find out."

Again there was prolonged applause. Mr. Kehoe in the meantime had slipped up to the blackboard and was giving some parting instructions to the boys how they must cast their votes. One after another had followed Mr. Kehoe to the blackboard or gone out of the house until there was none left for the old Squire to talk to but Uncle Steve Valentine, but still he talked on in a dreamy sort of way until he imagined that he had exchanged places with the Republican Preacher, and had retired from the stormy scenes of politics, for all at once he exclaimed, "Hear the word of St. Paul;—Paul says if ye can't do one thing do another; go right up and line and you'll all be saved," and thus the eventful evening closed with a hearty cheer for Cochran.

THE PUBLIC LEDGER will be on sale at the new Postoffice every day at one cent per copy.

Miss Sue Brittain of Flat Rock, Bath county, is down for a couple of weeks stay with her sisters.

The readers of THE LEDGER out here would be glad if the editor would give us the Maysville retail market.

The single X Democratic Club which was organized here last Friday night will meet every Friday night at the schoolhouse during the campaign.

John Scott, formerly a resident of this neighborhood but now of Flat Rock, Bath county, is spending a few days with relatives and old friends at this place.

Surprise parties are all the rage in this section. The young folks called on Miss Nellie Perrine a few evenings ago and the Misses Ricketts Thursday night.

Mrs. Cornelia Moran of Charleston Bottom celebrated her 75th birthday last Wednesday. Early in the morning her brothers and sisters began to arrive, taking the noble lady by surprise. They all came loaded down with good things, which looked too good to eat when spread out on the table. The following members of the family were present: Robert Downing and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Parker, Charles Downing, Mrs. Lucinda Downing, Mrs. Eliza Morton, Mrs. Marie Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Squire Thomas Downing, the last named being a daughter of Mrs. Moran. We omit the names of the younger people present, but will say that all enjoyed the occasion, which will be long remembered by those present. Mrs. Moran is the eldest and Charley Downing the youngest of the Downing family.
